STAHLE SEEKS GOP BACKING AS MODERATOR

Winslow A. Stahle of 56 Albert Street, before a gathering of friends announced his candidacy for the office of Town Moderator. His name will be on the ballot in the forthcoming Republican caucus.

Mr. Stahle is widely known as the resident manager of the Liberty Mutual, a past president of the Agawam Lions Club, president of the board of trustees for the Captain Charles Leonard House and served as president of the Western Mass. Safety Council for three years. Also, a former town meeting member and a cubmaster in the Cub Scouts of America.

Understanding that the successful fulfillment of the Town Moderator's job calls for more than average skill in the management and conduct of town meetings, in addition to the quality of being able to rise above partisan politics in appointments and judgments, Winslow Stahle presented his qualifications to the townspeople of Agawam.

Subsequent election to office could greatly enhance the dignity and prestige in conduct of our town affairs.

Golden Age Members To Attend All-Day Picnic Tuesday

Members of the Agawam Golden Age Club plan to attend the all-day picnic at the Western Massachusetts Golden Age Day at High Meadows at Granby, Conn., on Tuesday. A smorgasbord dinner will be served.

After the luncheon, Paul Munson will give an illustrated travel talk. This will be held in the parish hall of the Congregational Church.

Kerr Experience Extolled At Campaign Meeting

Over 75 supporters attended the recent campaign meeting of the Kerr for Selectman Committee, held at the West Springfield Fish and Game Club, reported Dr. Paul Query, committee chairman.

The group was informed of the twelve year record of accomplishment established by the well-known selectman. "The lengthy experience in town government acquired by Walter T. Kerr during his terms as Agawam selectman," stated chairman Query, "has benefitted and effected every resident of Agawam at one time or another to some degree. His tireless efforts and inside knowledge of the workings of local, state and federal government has consistently aided the local Board in acquiring assistance from state and federal agencies."

"A few of these," further stated Query, "were 50% aid from the Federal government on the Connecticut river interceptor sewer line. This aid amounted to $153,000; thirty per-cent aid on the Westfield river interceptor line; 70% assistance on the rebuilding of Springfield Street, which amounted to $140,000."

Other advantages gained by the town and accomplished during the tenure of Mr. Kerr, brought out at the meeting, were, the establishment of the Department of Public Works, relocation of Route 57, a new water system survey, a progressive street lighting program and a town wide sidewalk construction program which will, when completed, effect savings on the school budget bus program.

In closing his remarks to the large attendance, Chairman Query lightly touched on the fast expanding economy of the town and the necessity of maintaining qualified men of experience in town government.

A round table discussion those present came up with permanent plans of political strategy for the coming town-wide caucus. During the discussion it was again firmly established that independent voters could legally vote at the Democratic caucus without loss of their independent status.

Written Driver's License Examinations Start in Mass.

BOSTON—For the first time in the 60-year history of driver licensing in Massachusetts, written examinations will be given to applicants for a license to drive.

This new pilot program began Monday, Aug. 19, at the Registry of Motor Vehicles office, Beverly, with the testing of six applicants.

The written examination will cover rules of the road and applicable Massachusetts law, signs and signals.

The new written test, as before, will be based entirely on the Questions and Answers Booklets now distributed to applicants by the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

Another feature of the written examination, is the expectancy that questions indicating the proper safety attitude for a motorist will be included.

Registrar James R. Lawton said: "Massachusetts will be joining the more than 45 other states of the country which now offer a written examination. As soon as the pilot program is tested and completed, the written test will be used throughout the state."

Along with the new written examination, the other parts of the Driver Examination will remain as before. They are—the sight screening test, the color identification test, and the road test.

TIMELY ADVICE

In the firm belief that all of us should—occasionally, at least—pause and take stock of the way in which we use our time we direct your attention to the following editorial which appeared in the Weirton Steel Employees Bulletin:

A PRECIOUS COMMODITY

What would we do if we had a bank that credited $86,400 to our account each morning; carried over no balance from day to day; allowed us to keep no cash in our account and every evening cancelled whatever amount we failed to use during the day?

What would we do? Well, most of us would draw out every cent!

We have such a bank, you know. We call it "Time." Every morning it credits us with 86,400 seconds, and every night it writes off whatever of this we have failed to invest to good purpose. It carries over no balances.

Each day it opens a new account with us. If we fail to use the day's deposits, the loss is ours. There is no going back. There is no drawing against the "tomorrow."

"The reason that girl drivers have fewer accidents than boys, is that girls care about their faces...A boy has to show the world that he can beat that car up ahead before it reaches the crest of the hill. Nobody wants a boy to be a pantywaist. Nobody wants him to lack self-confidence. But is it too much to ask of him that he refrain from committing suicide...And that he give some small thought to the young girl as his side, the girl who, as a helpless passenger, may be disfigured for life."—DALLAS, PA., POST:

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

Q. If I am laid up and can't work, should I go to the social security office and apply for benefits?

A. If you cannot work because of a long-term disability, it is always wise to call at your social security office for advice. If your disability is serious enough, you may qualify for benefits, but if it is only temporary you may be directed to another office that can help you.

Q. How serious does my disability have to be for me to qualify for benefits?

A. Your disability must be so severe that it prevents you from doing any substantial or gainful work, and it must be of a type that will continue into the indefinite future.

Q. How soon can I get my first disability check?

A. You must be disabled for at least six months with the prospect of your disability continuing indefinitely before you may become entitled to disability benefits under the social security law. Your first monthly check would be for the seventh full month of disability.

Q. Why is it necessary to call at a social security office promptly when a person is so disabled he can't work if there's no possibility of receiving a benefit check until six months have passed?

A. Your social security office will use this time to review your work history to see if you have worked long enough to be insured; to explain the necessary medical evidence you must submit when you file a claim; to find out if you may have family benefits due you; and to tell you how to file for these family benefits—all of which will help insure that you get your first check on time.

Q. How much work must I have to be insured for disability benefits?

A. You must have worked under social security for at least five years out of the ten years before you became disabled.

Q. What family benefits are payable to a person who gets disability benefits?

A. Monthly benefits are paid to your wife if she is 62 years old or if she is under age 62 and has a minor child eligible for benefits in her care. Monthly benefits are payable to the children under age 18. Children's benefits can also be paid after age 18 if the child became disabled before age 18.

SCHOOL BELLS AGAIN

Everyone's view of summer is different depending on his responsibilities, opportunities, and role in life. Many mothers very probably feel it has been long, noisy, busy and hot. But a good many million children and dogs probably find it hard to believe that three months could have sped so quickly and that the school doors are about to open once again.

The sounds and smells and experiences of summer vacation are still an important part of growing up. But there have been changes—the old swimming hole may have become a concrete-lined chlorinated pool. The automobile and airplane have vastly extended the scope of things that can be seen on a vacation trip. School has changed too, as the frontiers of man's knowledge have been pushed back so rapidly in recent years. The amount of knowledge that must be packed into the heads of children in grade school and high school has vastly increased.

As school bells ring again, let's salute our young people and those who guide them through ever more complicated fields of learning. In the great affairs of nations, in science, and in the complicated business of leading a good and worthwhile life, our need has never been greater for concerned, intelligent, educated men and women.

(An Old Scot Tale)

The LOST PRINCESS

It was a warm day in summer and the Fairy Princess Rosepetal was out for a walk. She had walked quite a distance from the fairy palace, and had had an acorn cup of honeydew with a pixie family in their little toadstool house.

When she had left the fairy woods and reached the top of a tiny hill she decided it was time she started back. It was getting late.

"I must have a rest first," she thought, and sat down in the shade of a dandelion leaf.

For a time she watched some beetles playing in the sand. But it was so warm she fell fast asleep!

Rosepetal woke up with a start a short time later as a huge rain-droplet fell on the ground with a loud plop. Another fell and yet another. Down came the rain.

Cowering under the leaf, Rosepetal wondered what she could do. She couldn't fly home, for no fairy can fly in the rain. Their wings are too delicate. But she couldn't walk through that rain either!

Back at the fairy palace, the fairies all scuttled indoors as soon as the bees brought news of the rain.

Sitting by a window in the Throne Room the Fairy Queen watched the rain pour down. All of a sudden she wondered where Rosepetal was.

She sent for the Chamberlain. But it was Glitterwing, the little assistant chamberlain, who hurried into the room. She bowed low.

"The Chamberlain is in bed with a cold, your Majesty," she said. "Can I help you?"

"Yes, Glitterwing," the Fairy Queen smiled. "See if you can find the Princess Rosepetal. I haven't seen her all afternoon."

"Yes, Your Majesty," Glitterwing bowed again and hurried out.

Glitterwing hurried all over the palace, looking into every room. She even looked in the cellars. But there was no sign of the little Princess!

Worriedly, Glitterwing hurried back to the Throne Room. On the way she met a little fairy who told her Rosepetal had gone for a walk.

The Queen was very worried when Glitterwing told her the news.

"Where can Rosepetal be?" she cried, wringing her hands. "She must be caught in the rain somewhere!"

"We'll find her, Your Majesty," Glitterwing said bravely. "I'll take a search party out to look for her."

"But you'll be soaked if you go out in that rain!" cried the Queen.

"We'll fix up some sort of shelter," Glitterwing said. "Don't worry, it will be all right."

It was still raining steadily when Glitterwing gathered a number of fairies to form a search party.

"We'll go through the woods first of all," Glitterwing told them. "That is Rosepetal's favorite walk."

"What about the rain?" asked one fairy. "If we get our wings wet, we'll all be in bed with colds! And it's getting dark. The rain will put out the glow-worm lanterns!"

"We've got to do something,"

"Oh, dear!" cried Glitterwing. "I'll tell the Queen at once!"

Glitterwing pointed out. "We must find the Princess. Has anyone got any ideas?"

"Mortals use things called umbrellas when it's raining," another fairy said. "Couldn't we make some?"

"That's a good idea," Glitterwing looked thoughtful. "I've seen those umbrellas. But what could we use?"

Peabody Inks No-Fix Traffic System Bill

BOSTON — Governor Peabody signed Senate 860 which tightens the no-fix traffic system used in Massachusetts.

The legislation is part of a general message on Highway Safety submitted by the Governor earlier this year.

In signing the bill, Governor Peabody issued the following statement: "This legislation greatly strengthens the no-fix system for traffic violations here in Massachusetts.

"A stronger no-fix system must be the cornerstone of any effective highway safety program and it is a most vital part of the highway safety program which I submitted to the Legislature earlier this year.

"Under the provisions of this new system, every police officer will issue a ticket to the traffic violators and will issue copies to his police chief; one of which is to go to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles, and keep a copy for himself.

"I congratulate the legislature on enacting this bill. With this measure and other legislation awaiting action by the General Court, we will finally be able to turn the tide in our continuing fight for traffic safety."

Nearly 98 percent of World War II veterans able to work are employed, Veterans Administration figures show.

Massachusetts Wildlife

The publication put out by the Division of Fisheries and Game every two months called the Massachusetts Wildlife should be a must for every sportsman in the state. The information and articles written expressly for the hunter and fishermen are invaluable. The July and August issue has a complete list of bodies of waters in the Hampden and Hampden Counties and a complete description of the ponds and access to them. You can obtain the magazine free of charge by writing to the Division of Fisheries and Game, Westboro and requesting that you be placed on their mailing list.

It's New

A new product from Du Pont will solve the leader problem for many fishermen, particularly those whose favorite piece of equipment is a fly rod.

Named the "Stren" fluorescent monofilament leader-tie assortment, one colorful, compact package contains everything necessary to tie tapered and level leaders. It comes complete with an assortment of eight different pound tests of "Stren", illustrated instructions on the length of each pound test of monofilament to tie together to make a wide variety of tapered leaders, diagrams of the correct knots to use, a complete explanation of leader usage for both salt and fresh water fishing, and two 4-inch square waterproof polyethylene zipper-seal envelopes in which to store finished leaders.

A total of 255 yards of "Stren" fluorescent monofilament leader material is in the new package, including 50 yards each of two, four, and six-pound test, 25 yards of 10 pound test, 20 yards each of 14, 25, and 30-pound test.

Covered in the instructions are tapered leaders for use with a dry fly or nymph, streamer or bucktail for trout, another for panfish, and yet others designed for bass and northern pike. Salt water leaders illustrated include those for light fish such as shad or bonefish, medium species such as small tarpon, snook or ladyfish, and heavier fish such as large tarpon and snook. Knots outlined are the dropper knot for fishing with more than one fly at a time; the nail knot, to attach the leader to the fly line; the improved blood knot, to join various pound tests of monofilament together; the improved clinch knot, for tying the fly to the tippet; and the double surgeon's knot, used to attach a heavy monofilament shock leader to a light tippet. All knots have been extensively tested on electronic equipment at Du Pont laboratories.

There are 25,000 veterans of the Spanish American War still living. Average age is about 84, says the Veterans Administration.

DANNY KAYE AND CBS still haven't pinned down the format of his new Wednesday night series for next season. They've now decided they will tape four different dry-run shows beginning Aug. 10, then select the best parts of these as the regular format. Plans call for two guests on each show, in addition to three or four continuing characters. Paul Weston will be musical conductor, Tony Charmoli choreographer... The Bing Crosby invitational golf tournament, usually on ABC, will be on NBC next Jan. 18. It will pre-empt Jimmy Demaret's All Star Golf, which resumes as a Saturday afternoon feature beginning Jan. 4... Four Star has two major new projects in its 1964-65 hopper: a family-situation series in which Joan Crawford would appear every so often as a continuing character, and a dramatic anthology, with David Niven hosting all episodes, starring in some.

DENNIS WEAVER WILL TRY IT AGAIN, this time with a series, Kentucky's Kid, originally developed by NBC for the late Jack Carson. Weaver's two previous attempts to break out of his Chester mold in Gunsmoke were an hour variety show and an hour dramatic series, The Giant Step. Both failed to sell... Richard Basehart has been signed to narrate six new hour-long documentaries to be turned out by producer David Wolper... CBS wants to sign Rex Harrison for a fall special in which he would re-create his role of Henry VIII in "Anne of the 1000 Days," a play in which he once starred on Broadway. The special would be produced in England, financed by CBS and a British pay-TV outfit... For his new ABC series next season, Jimmy Dean plans to tape the first two, then switch over to an all-live production set-up.

Mitch Miller
...to tour U.S.A.

MITCH MILLER AND HIS Sing Along gang will promote the opening of their new fall series with a string of one-night Sing Along concerts in 10 different cities. They'll open in San Francisco Sept. 16, work their way back east... The first 77 Sunset Strip episode for next season will have three guest stars—Joseph Cotten, Nick Adams and Barbara Bain. Edd Byrnes, having been written out of the series, asked to be released from his contract and has departed the Warner Brothers premises... In addition to its planned five-minute, daily documentary Comeback series, 20th Century-Fox is blueprinting two more. A Day to Remember, a half-hour documentary of what might be called pinpointed history, and a half-hour series, Turning Point, also dealing with history.

Martha Raye Stars in "Call Me Madam"

WILBUR EVANS AND JIM KIRKWOOD CO-STAR
IN MUSICAL

Beginning Monday, August 26, Storrowton Music Fair producer Wally Beach, in association with Lee Guber, Frank Ford and Shelly Gross, will present the fabulous songstress-comedienne-star, Martha Raye, in a hilarious portrayal of Madam Ambassador in "Call Me Madam". This engagement will be a triumphant return for the incomparable Miss Raye to West Springfield, where, last summer, she scored a solid hit with public and press alike in "Wildcat". So great, in fact, Martha Raye is the only performer in the history of the Music Fair to have received standing ovations from the entire packed-house audiences after each performance.

"Call Me Madam" is one of America's great musical comedies, inspired by the appointment of the fabulous Washington party-giver, Perle Mesta, as our Ambassador to Luxembourg. The Music Fair production has been up-dated to the present Kennedy administration.

The hit score by the one-and-only Irving Berlin, includes: "The Hostess With The Mostest", "The Washington Square Dance", "Marrying For Love", "It's A Lovely Day Today", "The Best Thing For Me Is You" and "You're Just In Love".

Humorous digs at politics herein, both American and foreign are brilliantly construed by writers Howard Lindsey and Russell Crouse.

Wilbur Evans, who achieved international singing and acting heights (when he starred with Mary Martin in England) and Jim Kirkwood are co-starred. Others, prominent in support of "The Clown Princess Of Comedy", are Kelly Wood, Robert Bernard, Zale Kessler and Sam Kressen.

Jack Sydow directed the production with assists from Zeya Leporska who did the choreography and Joel Scott, the musical director.

As usual, there is a bargain matinee at 2 p.m. Wednesday when admissions are only $1, $2, and $3; a Saturday family matinee at 4:30 when a child under 12 is admitted free with each adult ticket purchased and evening performances Monday thru Friday at 8:30 p.m. The Saturday late show begins at 9 p.m.

The USA has 360,000 school teachers, trained under the GI Bill of Rights, according to the Veterans Administration.

WELCOME WAGON

Approximately 600-700 young men and women will apply for the first time for training in New England colleges and schools this fall under the seven-year-old War Orphans Education program, the Veterans Administration said today.

Since the program was launched in 1956, about 3,200 have entered training in this area. This coming year the average monthly enrollment is expected to be 1,900 during the peak fall enrollment period.

This education program is for the sons and daughters of veterans whose death was from disabilities or illness incurred in active service. These eligible "children" generally must be from 18 to 23 years of age. They are called "orphans" even though one parent may be still alive. They may marry without losing eligibility.

All applicants must have completed courses or have been a student in a regular high school. They may pursue a college education or take vocational courses leading to a future field of employment.

The program was originally established for those children whose veteran-parent's death was due to wartime disability or illness. It has since been amended to include those whose parent died as the result of disability suffered in performance of duty or extra hazardous duty while on active service in a period not considered "wartime."

Children who enter upon this educational program may receive as much as 36 months of schooling with the VA paying an allowance of up to $110 a month for each month they are at school. They will also be given vocational counseling prior to entering upon their courses to help them select both a goal and adequate preparatory classes.

LEGION AUXILIARY UNIT NEWS

by Virginia Catchepaugh

Looking Back and Ahead

August is the Month of Conventions on the Calendar of Activities of our American Legion Auxiliary. Reports of Department conventions are being heard at Unit meetings, and Department conventions are being held. Just ahead is the National Convention. It is a time for looking back over the year that has just passed and looking forward to the year ahead.

"Looking back, we can see that it has been urgently needed by our communities and our country. Danger to freedom has intensified through the advance of communism into the western hemisphere, and through the lethargy and indifference of American millions. Our Auxiliary activities have provided an inspiring example of patriotism in action."

"Looking forward, it is apparent that all the vigor and devotion of Auxiliary members will continue to be needed to help hold the line for freedom. The needs of the nation's aging defenders call out to us. The welfare of young Americans and their training for citizenship challenge us. Let us go forward from our conventions, Department and National, to another year of dedicated endeavor with the American Legion for our American Nation." (National President Mary H. Koger)
